MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS OF ANCIENT NOMADS:

THE ENSEMBLE "KHAAN NAIRAL"

The Ensemble named "Khaan Nairal" was established under the Chinggis Khaan National Museum, on the discovery and study of the 400-year old "Golden Notes" from Ligden Khan's royal palace music from the source, including over 20 musical instruments and clothing artifacts from ancient nomads and with the revitalization of the song, dance and music.

Ancient music concerts titled 'Noble Heritage' and modern concerts titled 'Great Mongol' are presented to the audience.

CHINGGIS KHAAN

NATIONAL MUSEUM

INTRODUCTION

The Chinggis Khaan National Museum was established in 2019 by Prime Minister U. Khurelsukh's decree. The museum displays the artifacts used by the kings and nobles of the Mongolian states, as well as more than 10,000 original exhibits showing major real events, from Modun Shanyu, the founder of the Xiongnu Empire - the first nomadic state, to the beginning of the twentieth century, with modern advanced technology, paintings, manuscripts, sculpture, sewing, and embroidery.

The Chinggis Khaan National Museum is a 9-floor building with modern technologies that meet international museum standards, and the total area is 22,500 m^2, of which the exhibition area is 10,200 m^2. The museum consists of eight permanent and temporary exhibition halls, a 3D animation displaying a virtual room with panoramic views, six halls dedicated to the treasury, a laboratory room, and a restoration room. There is also an exhibition restoration laboratory, two educational halls, a library, a mini-cinema, a "Silver Tree" hall, a souvenir shop, and a coffee shop.

Designed in accordance with modern international museum standards and safety requirements, the museum can accommodate 450–500 visitors at once.

CHINGGIS KHAN'S GRAND HALL OF HONOR

At the top of the hall, a golden statue of Chinggis Khan is placed, the roof of the building symbolizes the Mongolian ger, and the interior of the hall is a ceremonial hall designed to represent the chamber of Mongol khans and aristocrats.
